Santiago Landaburo

I am a 24-year-old Information Systems Analyst, currently in my final year of a degree program in the same field. I am a curious person who is passionate about programming and constantly seeking new knowledge. I have a great ability to immerse myself in situations, which allows me to find creative and effective solutions to the challenges that arise. With problem-solving and critical thinking skills, I always strive to exceed my own limits and tackle new challenges.
